

LAW COURSE STUDENT LEARNING OUTCOMES

LAW 101 - Fundamentals of Law I

CSLOs are under review.

LAW 198 - Special Topics Legal Assistant

CSLOs are under review.

LAW 203 - Real Property

Students will be able to analyze and apply core principles of real property law, including ownership, transfer, encumbrances, contracts, deeds, and taxation.

Students will be able to communicate real property concepts clearly in written formats.

Students will be able to draft documents commonly used in real estate transactions, such as deeds and promissory notes; analyze transactional documents to ensure due diligence and compliance with legal requirements.

LAW 204 - Torts

Students will be able to analyze and draft legal documents that involve researching tort issues.

Students will be able to participate in a series of group discussions and/or presentations related to case studies involving value judgments in tort cases.

Students will be able to describe, process, and communicate various tort concepts as used in the practice of tort law.

LAW 205 - Contracts

Students will be able to analyze core concepts and terminology of contract law and apply them to legal issues.

Students will be able to critically evaluate contract disputes and propose solutions by applying relevant statutes and case law.

Students will be able to demonstrate practical communication skills in applying and explaining procedural concepts and methods in contract law.

LAW 231 - Procedure - Civil

Students will be able to analyze and draft litigation documents, including discovery requests, pleadings, and legal research memos.

Students will be able to conduct and apply litigation preparation skills, including managing mock client case files, managing discovery, and mock trial presentations.

Students will demonstrate clear communication of civil procedure concepts through written legal documents, such as memos or briefs.

LAW 232 - Procedure - Criminal

Students will be able to analyze and draft legal documents related to criminal due process, such as briefs or memos on search and seizure, interrogation, and evidentiary issues.

Students will be able to engage in collaborative analysis of criminal case scenarios by applying legal principles and defending value judgments.

Students will be able to communicate criminal procedure concepts clearly in written contexts.

LAW 233 - Business Structures

Students will be able to analyze and draft legal briefs/memoranda dealing with business structure topics.

Students will be able to create and analyze business structure/entity cases in the context of conflicting value judgement issues.

Students will be able to describe, process, and communicate the elements and requirements for the formation of various business structures.

LAW 251 - Bankruptcy

CSLOs are under review.

LAW 252 - Family Law

CSLOs are under review.

LAW 255 - Probate Procedures

CSLOs are under review.

LAW 259 - Legal Writing

CSLOs are under review.

LAW 261 - Legal Research I

Students will be able to analyze the methods and terminology used in researching the law.

Students will be able to correctly use legal citations in legal memoranda.

Students will be able to conduct and analyze legal research based upon various case scenarios.

LAW 263 - Ethics

Students will be able to analyze and brief at least three judicial decisions relating to ethics.

Students will be able to read the Rules of Professional Conduct and analyze at least five fact patterns in light of the ethical rules.

Students will be able to evaluate lawyer advertising from an ethical perspective.

LAW 264 - Civil Evidence

Students will be able to draft and organize discovery documents and trial preparation materials.

Students will be able to conduct and summarize client and witness interviews for use in litigation.

Students will be able to apply critical thinking and organizational skills to analyze and manage evidentiary materials in complex cases.

LAW 295 - Supervised Field Experience

CSLOs are under review.